GUY ROTHWELL'S JOKE.

Seattle P. L.—To strike terror in the hearts of those visitors to the exposition who try to sample the sugar palace in the Hawaiian building the attendants have been forced to label the display with placards bearing the inscription, "Rough on rats—Dapper. Hands off."

"We've been obliged to do this," said Guy Rothwell, one of the attendants, yesterday. "Only today a round gentleman came up to me and said: 'That building is made of sugar, is it?' I answered him in the affirmative and he then asked if the sugar gets hard. On telling him yes, what should he do but punch a hole through the wall with his walking stick."

General Murray, by the way, is chief of the coast artillery in the eastern city and his attractive daughters have a wide acquaintance in army circles, so that their visit to this city has been crowded with more than the usual amount of complimentary affairs. They were the incentive for a delightful tea given by Captain and Mrs. Pourie, who took them first on an automobile trip out of town. Captain Pourie leaves August 5 for Honolulu, his next station, but Mrs. Pourie has been persuaded to remain here for a few weeks longer and will be at the St. Francis after Captain Pourie's departure for the Islands. Mrs. Pourie leaves also within a month, probably about September 5, and her friends have planned many delightful affairs before she leaves the city for indefinite absence.

SUE PRINCE DAVID'S ESTATE ON OLD NOTE

Two suits against John F. Colburn, executor of the will of David Kawanakoa, were filed in the Circuit Court yesterday, one by Mark P. Robinson, the other by W. H. McInerny. The suits are identical in character, and each for the amount of $575.24.

The complaints state that some years ago the plaintiffs, together with David Kawanakoa, Edgar Halstead, J. H. Fisher, John D. Holt, Jr., and Jonah Kuhio Kalaniana'ole, went securities on a note for $7000, of the Orpheum Company to Thomas S. Kay. The Orpheum went broke and did not pay the note, and Kay fell back on the sureties for the money. But Fisher, Halstead and Holt were insolvent and McInerny and Robinson were compelled, they claim, to pay $575.24 each over and above their proper shares of the indebtedness. Now they want the court to order the estate of Prince David to repay them proportionately what they had to pay on Kawanakoa's account.

John Low, son of Mr. and Mrs. Eben Low of Pawa, was badly bitten by a savage bulldog in Nuuanu valley on Saturday. The wounds were mainly on the boy's head, which presented a gory appearance. The dog sunk its teeth into the boy's scalp and only let go when its jaws were pried apart with a piece of iron. Under a doctor's care the little fellow is resting well.
